There's a world of difference between "competence" and "competencies" but we often confuse the two. It's as if the words were cursed by the gods, and some mythological being clouds all understanding of the terms among mortals, whenever and wherever they are used in business. (I'm specifying business here, because education uses competencies in many practical ways and they don't seem to ...

A crucified Messiah is an impossibility—the one hanged on the tree to die is a traitor or a blasphemer. Hanging on the cross, he is accursed by God and men. Such was the priestly doctrine in the days of Jesus, as we have learned from the Dead Sea Scrolls and other early Jewish sources. In Deuteronomy 21:22-23 we find the following law: a man guilty of a capital offence is put to death and ...

Some would call it a curse from God Almighty Himself. This is the true story of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church or, as some might have believed, the most cursed church in the world. In 1906 the church's pastor, Father William Weigand, came forward and told his congregation one Sunday morning that he believed his church was suffering from the wrath of the Lord.
