"Gardening is not for the faint of heart," Johnson warns, and adds, "Neither is meditation." A dragon's tail flickers under these meditation robes. We follow that tail, of a one-time political activist and "rabid" protector of the natural world, through the garden gate and into the garden: blossoms and thorns, fruit and failure, and a variety of prickly-sweet characters, Johnson ...

Gardening at the Dragon's Gate fits, but is different from any other book I've read for this column. Wendy Johnson, the author, is a practicing Buddhist and is also one of the founders of the Green Gulch Farm Zen Center in Marin County. She's had a lifetime of teaching Zen Buddhist meditation and organic gardening in the Bay Area.
